World Magazine

As a Christian, where do you turn for news about what is happening in the world? Since it is impossible for a news source to be "neutral" and "unbiased," why not turn to a source that has an honest bias toward a Judeo-Christian worldview? For Katy and me, nothing helps us to better assimilate what is happening in our world than World magazine. To quote from their own web site, "World tries to be salt, not sugar."

We like to report good news but we don't make it sticky-sweet. We also report bad news because Christ's grace becomes most meaningful when we're aware of sin. We want to be tough-minded but warmhearted. We are dependent on God and independent of any political faction or interest group. We don't let advertisers influence news content.... We want our readers to enjoy the world God has made, full as it is of nooks and crannies and weirdness. We stand for factual accuracy and biblical objectivity, trying to see the world as best we can the way the Bible depicts it. Journalistic humility for us means trying to give God's perspective.... We read novels, go to movies, and listen to classical music but also jazz.... We cover all aspects of the news: national, international, and cultural; politics and business; medicine, science, technology, and sports... But what matters the most is this: We believe in a God who tells the truth and wants us to do the same.

In this new year, why not treat yourself to a magazine subscription that will inform your head and warm your heart?
